Before the court is the omnibus motion of defendants Merck & Co. Inc. and Merck Sharp & Dohme Corp. ("Merck") to dismiss all claims for fraudulent misrepresentation, fraudulent concealment, negligent misrepresentation, and, where applicable, state consumer fraud violations alleged in the 173¹ above actions. While Merck has explicitly identified Florida Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act ("FDUTPA") allegations in its motion, some complaints instead assert violations of other state consumer fraud laws or simply "consumer fraud." See e.g. complaints in Saleme v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20297 and Yepez v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20145. These claims are typically described in count IX of the complaints. We are treating the motion as also moving to dismiss these claims because they contain language that is identical to the FDUTPA allegations Merck seeks to dismiss and are based on fraud.

1. The omnibus motion was filed in 177 cases, but parties have since agreed to stipulations of dismissal in Gaines v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20169; Augustyniak v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20199; Stewart v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20236; and Sperling v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20237.

McKesson Corp. ("McKesson") has also filed motions to dismiss the entire complaint in each of these cases, including an omnibus motion that applies to 92 cases. In some of the above actions, one or both of the motions is unopposed.

We are granting the omnibus motion of Merck to dismiss with prejudice because plaintiffs have failed to plead the above described claims with the particularity required by Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure as more fully explained in Bentley v. Merck & Co., 2017 WL 2349708 (E.D. Pa. May 30, 2017). See also Erickson v. Merck & Co., 2018 WL 2357273 (M.D. Fla. May 17, 2018); Erickson v. Merck & Co., 2018 WL 3626469 (M.D. Fla. Feb. 22, 2018); and Erickson v. Merck & Co., 2017 WL 9938491 (M.D. Fla. Dec. 8, 2017).² Any attempt to replead, in our view, would be futile.

Each of the 173 complaints is full of boilerplate language unrelated to the individual case and is the antitheses of how a proper federal complaint should be drafted. The one-size-fits-all approach of plaintiffs' counsel produced allegations that are absurd on their face as to every plaintiff. Notably, plaintiffs state that they were induced to obtain a Zostavax vaccination by advertisements that began running years after plaintiffs were inoculated. Plaintiffs' counsel has habitually made such improper allegations, and the court has previously granted motions to dismiss nearly-identical claims with prejudice. See e.g. Everts, et al. v. Merck & Co. Inc., et al., 2:18-cv-20049 (Pretrial Order No. 87); In Re: Zostavax Products Liability Litigation, 2:18-md-2848 (Pretrial Orders Nos. 98-101). Despite the court's strong language chastising plaintiffs' counsel, counsel continues its vexatious behavior. When asked by defendants' counsel to dismiss voluntarily the hundreds of facially absurd claims in light of our repeated dismissals of identical claims, plaintiffs' counsel advised, "Absent a decision and order from the Court dismissing the fraud-based claims in each case, we will not voluntarily dismiss the fraudulent misrepresentation, fraudulent concealment, negligent misrepresentation, and consumer fraud claims." We reiterate that such behavior can only be designed to waste the time and resources of the court and opposing counsel.

2. Although the decisions in this district lack consensus regarding whether Rule 9(b) applies to claims of negligent misrepresentation, we will follow Judge Stengel's decision in Hanover Ins. Co. v. Ryan, 619 F. Supp. 2d 127, 142 (E.D. Pa. 2007) and apply the heightened pleading standard.

Defendant McKesson, unlike Merck, has filed motions to dismiss the entire complaint in each of these actions. As we have done with respect to Merck's motion, we are granting McKesson's motions with prejudice as to the fraud and misrepresentation counts for the reason stated above. We are also dismissing the remaining counts without prejudice on the ground that plaintiffs have failed to satisfy the requirements of Rule 8(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The complaint must contain "a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a). The deficiencies of the complaints in this regard are manifest and need no further discussion beyond the well-reasoned analysis of Judge James Moody Jr. in Erickson v. Merck & Co., 2018 WL 2357273 (M.D. Fla. May 17, 2018) (dismissing a similar complaint). See also Weiland v. Palm Beach Cty. Sheriff's Office, 792 F.3d 1313 (11th Cir. 2015). We have repeatedly granted motions to dismiss such needlessly verbose complaints and continue to do so here.

While Merck has not filed motions to dismiss any count under Rule 8(a), we are dismissing each of the entire complaints as to it for the reasons asserted by McKesson. Otherwise, there would be one complaint as to McKesson and a different complaint as to Merck in each case. This would create unmitigated confusion. Accordingly, we are acting pursuant to Rule 1 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure which provides that the Rules "should be construed, administered, and employed by the court and the parties to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action and proceeding." Fed. R. Civ. P. 1.

We call ¶ 7 of this court's order to the special attention of plaintiffs' counsel and urge them not to repeat the same behavior exhibited here with respect to any future filings in this Multi-District Litigation.
